

LA COCUMELLA

a place where every spot has a story to tell or a secret to reveal...

from 1777

La Cocumella is the oldest hotel in the Sorrento peninsula.

This marvelous garden which reaches to the sea, was Residence of the Jesuit priests from 1637 up to 1777 when it became first a guest-house and eventually a hotel.

A careful and masterful restoration project by the architect Nino del Papa transformed it into the enchanting "oasis of the peninsula" it is today.

The ancient cloister and church, its elegant rooms, the silence of its gardens, the spectacular terrace and suggestive coves that descend to the sea, have all welcomed in more than 200 years the most illustrious travelers of the Grand Tour – from Goethe to Mary Shelley to Hans Christian Andersen and Sigmund Freud – and conserve to this day the wonders and the precious heritage of the history and art of all times.
